ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

SCHOOL BOARD.

As required by law, the following report is respectfully submitted for the year ending March 1, 1894:

SCHOOL NO. 2.

The spring term of this school began April 17, and closed June 30, being eleven weeks in length. Whole number of pupils attending, thirteen, two of whom, Iva Whittaker and Arthur Batchelder, are reported as not being absent or tardy during the term. The fall term began September 6, and closed on November 24, being twelve weeks in length. Whole number of pupils, eight. The third or winter term began December 10, and was nine weeks in length, closing February 9. The names of Henry T. Batchelder and Arthur H. Batchelder are on the roll of perfect attendance for this term. Whole number of scholars, eleven. Teacher for the year, Mary L. Wheeler, who has now taught in this and other schools of the town with uniform success for the past six years.

SCHOOL NO. 3.

The spring term of this school was taught by Mary E. Butell of this town. It was eleven weeks in length, beginning April 17, and ending June 30, and was attended by twenty pupils, only one of whom—Pauline Calef—appears to have been neither absent nor tardy. The fall term of twelve weeks in length, beginning September 5, and closing November 25, was in charge of Fanny J. Everett, also of this town, being her first attempt at teaching. Whole number of scholars, twenty-two, the name of Verta Smith being the only one upon the roll of perfect attendance. The winter term of nine weeks was taught by Mary F. Barker of Stratham. It began December 18, and did not close until February 23, being somewhat interrupted by unfavorable weather. Whole number of pupils attending, twenty. Four—Willie Adams, Nellie F. Adams, Verta Smith and Flora Smith—were not absent or tardy throughout the term.

SCHOOL NO. 4.

School No. 4 was taught throughout the year by Mary G. Calderwood, a resident of this town and a graduate of the high school at Vinalhaven, Me., class of 1892, and was her first experience as a teacher here, although she had previously taught elsewhere. The spring term began April 17, and continued for eleven weeks, closing June 30. Whole number of different scholars, six. The fall term was twelve weeks in length, beginning September 5, and ending November 24. Whole number of scholars attending this term, fifteen. The winter term was nine weeks in length, commencing December 11, and ending February 9. Whole number of scholars, twelve. No names, we are sorry to report, appear on the roll of perfect attendance for any of the terms, although two or three seem to have barely escaped that honor.

SCHOOL NO. 5.

The spring term of this school commenced April 17, and continued until June 30, being eleven weeks in length. Eleven scholars attended this term, most of whom appear to have been very regular and punctual in their attendance, the register showing fewer absence and tardy marks than any other term of school in town during the year. The fall term was attended by eleven different pupils, also, and was eleven weeks in length, beginning September 11, and closing November 24. The winter term commenced December 11, and continued, with some intermissions, which can be safely charged to the weather, until February 14. Whole number of scholars, thirteen. Edwin E. Brickett and Ethel A. Damon were not absent during the spring term, and Mabel F. Damon takes the first place on the roll of perfect attendance—not being absent for the whole of the three terms. Teacher for the year, Emma B. Gordon, who has had much experience as a teacher in this immediate vicinity.

By reference to the foregoing it will be seen that in consequence of the liberality of our citizens in voting an extra amount of school money at their last annual meeting, we have had a proportionate increase of school during the past year. In accordance with the vote of the district this extra amount has been expended as nearly as practicable equally among the several schools in the district, and has resulted in giving each school a winter term of nine week in length. Some of these schools have been more or less interrupted by the unusually severe weather that has prevailed during the latter part of the season, and they have suffered somewhat from irregular attendance on this account. Other districts, by reason of being better situated in regard to the location of the schoolhouse and the contiguity of the pupils thereto, rendering it more easy of access during unpleasant weather, have kept along without such interruption and with about the ordinary average attendance. It will be seen also that there has been a slight falling off in the number of names usually reported on our roll of perfect attendance. In one locality this is no doubt attributable to sickness on the part of the pupils, necessarily causing many absences during the latter portion of one term. In another, which but a short time ago stood at the head in this respect, we are inclined to think that no such good and sufficient reason can be pleaded. For nearly all of its pupils could not have been absent on that account on a certain day and the same ones present at school on the following day. It seems to us that parents should not allow their children to be absent from even one session of school, unless by reason of sickness or some other equally imperative cause. The absence of even a single scholar for a single day will effect in a measure a whole class, and it will require in many instances a few days more or less to get things evened up and the class in good running order again. And in this connection it is worthy to note that the one pupil who has been perfect in attendance during the past year has had a longer distance to travel to and from school than any other, thus showing that delinquency in this respect is not always caused by being remote from the school-room.

However, taken as a whole we have reason to believe that the general condition of our schools is much better than in some previous years. In one or two instances, at least, the improvement was so apparent that even the most superficial observer could not fail to notice the change for the better. Order came out of seeming chaos, and ambition on the part of the pupils took the place of apathy and indifference. On the other hand, one of our schools has been hardly up to the standard of former years. There is no doubt but what a variety of causes has contributed to produce this undesirable result. It may have been, perhaps, an unwise selection of a teacher or teachers on the part of the school board. The employing of a new teacher is more or less a matter of chance—in fact, a lottery, in which we may, and often do, draw a prize, but are very apt to get a blank. Then, too, a teacher may have the best of success in one particular school, but when transferred to another, seemingly no harder to manage or more difficult to instruct, will make a complete failure, owing no doubt in many cases to the unfavorable conditions by which she may chance to be surrounded. It cannot be the fault always of the teacher that a school is not successful; the cause must sometimes be outside of the schoolroom, for it is an undeniable fact that even a second-class teacher with no particular aptitude for the work will, if properly supported by the parents, and the pupils are generally well disposed and tractable, keep a fairly good school; but even the best may fail if the pupils are unruly and mischievous and the parents are antagonistic, or even indifferent, to her efforts.

A Treasurer's report and tabular statement are appended.
